Helen James

Helen is a pensions actuary with over 25 years experience as a consulting actuary advising trustees and employers in connection with occupational pension schemes.

Prior to joining Law Debenture she was a partner at Watson Wyatt where her principal role was as scheme actuary and pension consultant. She sat on several Watson Wyatt internal groups including those relating to scheme actuaries, PPF and trustee governance. Helen has also served on external committees of professional bodies including the Pensions Committee of the Association of Consulting Actuaries.

Prior to joining Watson Wyatt, she was a partner at Clay & Partners (now AON), a firm of consulting actuaries, and was involved in advising companies and trustees on a wide range of pension issues. She also had a variety of internal roles, as a member of the Salary Committee, chair of the Technical Committee and a member of the Management Board with particular responsibilities for technical and IT matters.
